

NEW EAST COAST OFFICE OPENS

13th December 2016

AHG's landmark east coast corporate headquarters has opened at Prestons in Sydney's western industrial hub as the permanent home for NSW automotive corporate staff.

Darin Ferguson, AHG NSW CFO, says the move into the new premises is an exciting time.

"The new modern work environment spread over a 4.2 hectare footprint is not only a great place to work, but will foster employee collaboration, drive innovation and signals that AHG is focused on continued growth," said Darin.

"Bringing our growing teams together in a cohesive and collaborative environment will streamline how we work, make our employees lives better, and deliver better results and service to our customers," he said.

"The unification of staff will improve efficiencies across our operation, facilitate greater interaction and provide space and facilities for our training needs."

The eye-catching design features an eight-metre high vaulted atrium to carry natural light into the deep footprint of the office building. In line with AHG's commitment to sustainability, the new facility has energy efficient LED lighting, solar panels on the warehouse roof and a state-of-the-art building management system.

The landscaped headquarters includes 3,500 square metres of office space, an 82-seat conference room, a 28-seat flexible training space, a 9,500sqm warehouse and 2,600sqm of workshop space. The site also offers more than 9,500sqm of hardstand, staff and customer car parking, and 11,000sqm of car storage.
