AHG APPOINTS QUEENSLAND OPERATIONS MANAGER

Australia's largest automotive retailer, Automotive Holdings Group (ASX:AHE), is pleased to announce the appointment of Mike Revill to the key position of Operations Manager, Queensland Automotive, effective from January 2013.

Mike joined AHG from Nissan two years ago as Operations Executive in the Sydney office and has spent considerable time in the dealer network focusing heavily in the areas of used vehicles, inventory management and franchise performance. His functions have included caretaker Dealer Principal positions in Victoria and Queensland.

Mike has also been heavily involved in integrating new businesses into the AHG model in Victoria, driving performance and returns for the Group's dealerships and its business partners, and in the establishment of two Greenfield developments in Castle Hill, NSW.

The past 12 months have seen Mike in Queensland for the majority of most weeks, working closely with newly appointed dealers in establishing the AHG culture and ensuring that the Group's proven operating model was overlaid in each new dealership management team.

AHG managing director Bronte Howson said that most recent experience and his knowledge of the Group's automotive business in Queensland, and the relationships he has established with key Queensland personnel, made Mike the perfect candidate to take on this important position.

"We are extremely proud of Mike's achievements to date and we look forward to his contribution to our ongoing growth and success in Queensland," said Mr Howson.
